

Takako Davis,
Nagoya, Japan, 1969

My name is Takako Davis. I joined the Unification Church in 1969 in Nagoya, Japan.

When I joined the Unification Church, I was 19-years old and served with Rev. Takeru Kamiyama, and Mr. Motoo Furuta in Nagoya, Japan. When I heard the Divine Principle the first time, it gave me all the answers to my search for the meaning of life. Most of my church activities in the early years were involved with fundraising (selling flowers, ginseng tea, marble vases, etc.)

I participated in the 1800-Couple Marriage Blessing on 1975. In 1981, I went to England for International One World Crusade activities for two years. Then I moved to America. I was fundraising with my husband, Tim Davis, who was a fundraising captain in Los Angeles, before we started our family there in 1983. I also served as the lecturer of Divine Principle in Japanese at Camp Mazumdar.

In 1991, we moved to Hawaii to help in renovating True Parents' house in Kona. Since then, I have been doing outreach to Christian ministers. King Kamehameha VII is one of the results of my outreach in Kona.

The highlight of my life is that True Parents visited my home in the year 2000.
