

The Dallas church welcomed 15 new guests to their final outreach revival

John Jackson
March 8, 2015

Celebration was in the air as the Dallas community welcomed 15 new guests and many returning participants to a final gathering of the outreach revival. The two-week outreach initiative, inspired in part by the recent activities in Las Vegas and Hawaii, has been an inspiring effort. Participants from the community and nearby states took the time to invest in outreach on university campuses, give Divine Principle lectures and study and commit to their own faith.

In just two weeks, the team has welcomed many new guests. Weekly meetings, Bible studies, themed event nights and Sunday services have provided a consistent place for guests to come and feel welcome. Most of the days were spent out in the city of Dallas or on campus speaking with students and making one-on-one connections. It has been an enlightening experience for guests and participants alike.

On Sunday, March 8, 2015, under the banner of True Father's famous words, "Forgive, Love, Unite", the team gathered together with guests and community to say goodbye to some of the participants and to celebrate a successful effort. The community has pledged to make outreach a priority for the year, so this program is only the beginning of what will no doubt be more exciting development to come.