

A dream with True Father

Michael Lamson

May 1, 2014

Last night I had a dream with True Father. This seems to be happening a lot these days to many people.

In my dream Father and I were sitting in a room talking and he was laughing a lot. I was so happy because this was not a side of Father I saw often. I can't remember what we were talking about but I can remember the feeling, it was positive and victorious, like everything had been completed.

True Mother came into the room and Father asked me to get him a cup of tea. He was speaking Korean but somehow I understood. He wanted a cup of tea that sounded like "omiga". I went into the kitchen and asked a Korean brother to help me make Father that kind of tea. He responded, not so kindly, that he knew what Father liked best and would make that.

I was struggling and angry at his response but decided to unite and asked God to help me keep a calm spirit. Wonju McDevitt came into the kitchen and when she looked at me she said "sometimes Koreans really do know what is best for Father" and gave me a really stern look. I took the tea to Father and when he smelled it he said "God really knows what I want" and winked at me.

Not sure what I was supposed to gain if anything from the dream but I woke up happy.