Viktor Frankl, a holocaust survivor and a psychiatrist, is known for his 'Man's Search for Meaning.' Frankl identifies self-transcendence as the essence of being human and the key to making life meaningful. The presentation articulates the philosophical characteristics of Frankl's hermeneutic space and its relation to a religious belief system, briefly commenting on its implications for Unificationism.

Dr. Noda is a philosophy professor at HJI, holding a BE in Applied Physics from Waseda University, Japan, and MA and Ph.D. in philosophy from the New School for Social Research, focusing on phenomenology. Additionally, he possesses a diplomate credential from the Viktor Frankl Institute. An accomplished author, he has written books in Japanese, including a two-volume work titled "History of Philosophy as Narrative" and a philosophical novel on suicide, "Even Then I Keep Living." Dr. Noda has also contributed numerous articles to the field. His presentation draws from his recent presentation at the 24th World Congress of the Viktor Frankl Institute.
