

Picketing Hak Ja Han's Madison Square Garden Event

My wife and I had a very interesting time yesterday outside Madison Square Garden. It was good to hold up signs because everyone in line read them. I think signs communicate a message more effectively to a lot of people walking by than handing out flyers. Almost everyone walking by read the signs.

It was a real surprise to see how spiritually empty and small so many of the Family Fed members were. The black folks from other churches were the ones who really felt deeply religious.

There is no way for the Family Fed to go forward with such spiritual bankruptcy. They are committing an only begotten daughter suicide.

We were warmly embraced by some old sweet friends and the sight of our signs really annoyed others. Some old friends thought we were of the devil. I felt like I was the fly in their nice bowl of soup. Even after you take out the fly, you can never enjoy the soup because surely some germs are left behind. It was good to plant some of Father's views in their mind just before they were presented with Mother and her heresies.

The NYPD made my wife and I move a few times. I argued with them and didn't go across the street where they told me to go. I got arrested so many times on MFT in the late 1970's. We got sent into areas that our lawyers knew would produce tickets and arrests. It was nice to get just a little taste of those days again.
