January 6, 2012

CARP was excited to offer another year of scholarships for our community of students this fall. We had an incredibly tough time going through a record amount of quality scholarship applications in the three categories of Nurturing a Spiritual Life, Academic Excellence, and Creating a Generation of Peace.

Nurturing a Spiritual Life winners were chosen based on an essay sharing about their journey, ups and downs, of creating and keeping a balanced spiritual life.

1st place: Kimisei Miyaki, Business at Pace University

2nd Place: Katya Beebe, International Relations and Diplomacy at Seton Hall University

3rd Place: Joshua Starr, Business Administration at Berkeley City College

(Nurturing a Spiritual Life Winners receive their crowns and sashes on stage)

Academic Excellence winners were selected based on their academic transcripts, G.P.A., leadership positions and involvement on campus, and campus awards.

1st Place: Sammi Vanderstok – Business Administration/ Finance at Marist College

2nd Place: Tanya Triggol – Nursing at Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis

3rd Place: Jane Kinney –Social Work at Fordham Graduate School of Social Services

(Sammi Vanderstok, first place winner for Academic Excellence shaking hands with Lovin Live Senior Pastor, In Jin Nim Moon)

Creating a Generation of Peace scholarships were given to CARP chapters across the country based on their activities, registration and development as a contributing organization or club on campus.

1st Place: University of California, Berkeley

2nd Place: University of Washington (click to see semester video)

3rd Place: University of Maryland

(Naomi Starr receives the scholarship on behalf of UC Berkeley)

CONGRATS to all scholarship winners and applicants, students and clubs, for their hard and inspiring work on campus.

Keep up the amazingness!
