FFWPU Colombia: On June 29, Colombia held Peace Road. The Peace Road march was from in front of Bogota City Hall to Simon Bolivar Park, about ten km. A hundred and fifty people participated, including religious leaders, a Korean War veterans' families, Ambassadors for Peace and many young people.

Notably, interreligious leaders led the city hall officials and prepared for this Peace Road. It was raining during the march but afterward sun rose. It was as if Heavenly Father responded to the energy we invested in the Peace Road march.

During an interview, a colonel in the Military Reserves said, “I hope Korea has no war and fights, and through this Peace Road, I hope there will be a peace in Korea.”

The war widows and family members’ eyes ached with tears. One of the wives said, “We hope their husbands’ sacrifice helps make peace in Korea.”

One active Colombian Army captain said during an interview, “The Colombian Army is very close to the Korean Army. I hope Asia can live in peace through this Peace Road project and I hope for the peaceful reunification of South Korea and North Korea.”
