The 16th Annual Thanksgiving Interfaith Concert was held at the beautiful St. Michael's Catholic Church on the Big Island of Hawaii. With over 350 people in attendance, the concert also boasted a great diversity of faith traditions, featuring dancing and singing performances from 12 different faith groups.

Rev. Chuck Frumin of the Kona Family Church emceed the event, while the Unificationist community in Kona helped organize it. Those who believe in Hinduism, Protestantism, Sufism, Judaism, and more were delighted to give thanks through their musical performances in this interfaith concert. Unificationists of the Kona Family Church continued the spirit of love and unity with their rendition of "Grace of the Holy Garden" and "Amazing Grace" to represent the Unificationist faith. The audience of 350 people cheered in awe during third-generation Unificationist Mana Matsuzaki's verse of "Amazing Grace."

The concert was also a fundraiser for the local Hawaii Food Bank. Over 400 pounds of canned food and over $300 in cash were donated by those attending the concert.
