

HPHC Barcelona, Spain: End-of-the-year Program Divine Principle Colloquium

Maryvonne Jamois
July 16, 2023

Between Rodríguez López, Silvia Torres, Héctor Macías, and Dulce Balil, we thought about the possibility of concluding this semester with a meeting of the group of guests with the blessed families of Barcelona, and that is how we decided to prepare an excursion.

We chose a very attractive place that we had yet to visit. Cardona is a historic town with a fortified castle and salt mines. It is an hour and a half from Barcelona.

We moved in two cars. One from Barcelona and the other from Manresa with Kyung Min's car.

We all meet at the mine entrance, and there we begin a guided route through the bowels of it, which is very exciting. Later we ate in a picnic area under a small tree that gave us its precious shade. After eating and sharing, we headed to the castle, whose views are beautiful, and we could take photos and have a great coffee.

It was a very gratifying outing for everyone, and we look forward to seeing each other again soon and continuing the dinner discussion in September!