Elisabetta Nistri was invited to give a lecture on the topic of Femicide to 70 University students, with Peace Ambassador Virginia Vandini, in June 2020.

After addressing the 5 points of the SDG (Sustainable Development Goals) of UN Agenda 2030, she pointed out that violence against women is still like a cancer, and difficult to eradicate because in most case it is related to emotional relationships. Therefore it is so important to understand from a young age that love means to give joy and happiness to other, and not to pretend or possess somebody's love.

Life is a very interesting journey and we never finish to learn, it is most important to learn to love starting with the right motive and direction.
