

Madison Square Garden brought so much hope for the future of my family

Moe Lehrer
July 15, 2017

It was a pleasure for my family to be able to travel from Maryland to attend True Mother's speech. Notably, my husband's sister attended – she is not a Unificationist. We thought to invite her because she lives in Brooklyn. At first she declined, saying that it is difficult for her to sit still for long periods of time.

She has been a regular smoker (and drinker) all her life. She initially said that she would meet us and hang around with us for a while and skip the speech. Then later she changed her mind and said that she would come if we could get seated together with me, my husband, and our twin daughters. We had already bought four tickets. So what we had to do was buy five new tickets and return the four that we had bought. Luckily, we were able to do that in time.

She attended the speech and had a great time. We were so surprised to hear her refer to True Mother as "Mother Moon." Combined with the beautiful gathering of many different kinds of people, the amazing music and worship, and True Mother's speech, this Madison Square Garden brought so much hope for the future for America and for my family.