

The Jordanian Legal System Comes from the Way a Family Works

Our UC Missionary in the Kingdom of Jordan

March 1976

Vicki Tatz, Editor

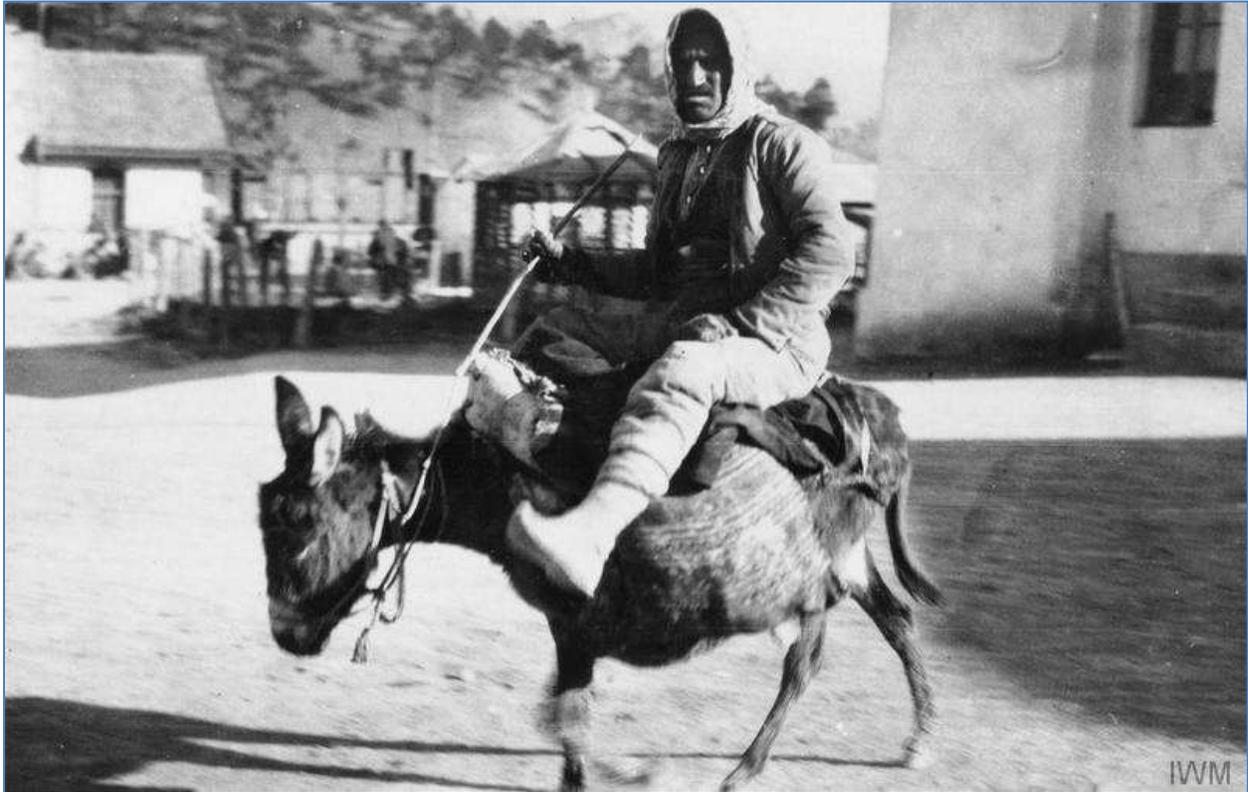

Photo date and location unknown

My friend hit a man riding a small donkey last week [while driving his car].

Here, the legal system enforces give and take.

He must visit the man in the hospital, and give him chocolates, etc. so he will not speak badly about him when the case comes to court next week.

It's a good system, coming from the way a family works.