

Schoolbooks are very scarce here, so I write on the blackboard a lot of the time

From a Unification Church Missionary in Eastern Africa

April 1976

Edited Vicki Tatz

Photo date and location unknown

As a teacher, I usually give a small talk or explanation for 10 minutes, then I write on the blackboard the rest of the time.

Schoolbooks are very scarce here, so often the only thing a student will know is what he can get from class.

Also, next week I will be "master on duty" for the week, meaning I will be in charge of discipline in the school.

If students misbehave, they are sometimes beaten with a small switch from a tree.

So far, I haven't hit anyone, and I hope not to!