On December 21, 2018, WFP Bolivia held a ceremony to officially open a new chapter in the city of Sucre.

This event led to the participation of 70 people, among them special guests, public figures from the Legislative Assembly, Lic. Yesenia Yarhui Albino, as well as Lic. Uganda Vedia, free volunteer lawyer who works in the human rights group Chuquisaca (A. P.D.H.CH). These public figures committed themselves to carry out activities that help to the development of society and restoring the value of women who work and live for the greater good.

Representatives of WFP La Paz, WFP Cochabamba and WFP Santa Cruz also participated in this event to support the inauguration and commitment to WFP's future activities in Sucre.

The guests felt inspired, some even expressing interest in becoming a part of WFP Bolivia.
