As a young adult, he traveled to Southern California seeking the "safe warmth of LA" that The Mamas and The Papas sang about. He joined the Unification Movement and fundraised by working in a holistic nutrition shop and managing a real estate company, until he was Blessed in marriage with his wife Mitsuyo in Korea in 1982.

Chuck and Mitsuyo relocated to Seattle, Washington where they started their family. Missing the sunny climate of California, they migrated back south where they would plant their roots; growing their family and Chuck discovering and developing his entrepreneurial passion for glove development and design.
