

WFP Nigeria's Character Education Program To Assist Youth

Imo Nkanta
July 9, 2022

WFP Nigeria aims to assist youth in teaching character education to students. Youths can develop a higher awareness of the social implications of their science studies, become independent individuals and learn to recognize, accept and internalize their roles in decision-making. We hope this program on July 9, 2022, will enhance the youths' decisions, critical thinking abilities and increase their motivation. Our hope is that the youth can handle various moral and ethical issues in society, take responsibility and build good character.

These are the principles and we as an organization are piloting the concept and our support for the youth to learn the basic needs and characteristics of moral education and seek proper character guidance. We taught the youth in knowing the requirements for admission to their dream school and help the youth to adjust to the school, its rules, regulations and the social life connected with it.

Despite various obstacles in teaching character education and implementing character education in society, the majority of science educators, teachers, and society at large strongly support the presence of morals, values, ethics and character education in the curriculum which may provide a motivational context for learning.

